

Let It Rein

The idea of “saving for the rainy days” is a reminder to put something aside for future times or set aside funds to cover needs when your account balance is insufficient.

I am sure we have all thought as we put change in a jar in our closet or emptied our pockets in the laundry room that one day, we could cash the coins in during a time of need. Let’s hope we never have to count the pennies during traumatic times in our lives.

As a reiner and a member of NRHA, you have benefits available that are accessible both inside and outside the arena. As members, we can participate in more than 1,140 NRHA-approved shows per year at different levels of competition, from beginner classes to the top tier. We have opportunities to show in front of judges who have completed substantial training and testing for fairness and consistency in our sport.

Your benefits include the NRHA Sire & Dam program, ReinerSuite™ to track your earnings and horses, and networking opportunities within your peer group. As an NRHA member, you can join local affiliates and compete for amazing prizes. There is something for everyone!

You might also be eligible for benefits offered through NRHA’s 501(c)3 nonprofit organization, the Reining Horse Foundation (RHF). The RHF is committed to caring for and honoring the reining community through the Dale Wilkinson Memorial Crisis Fund, youth scholarship programs and leadership development, and the NRHA Hall of Fame.

There are many ways — both large and small — to donate to the RHF. There are big-ticket items in charitable auctions throughout the year. Table underwriting is available at Sliders’ Night Out presented by Toyon Ranch. You can also find pop-up fundraisers throughout the year around the world that offer various levels of giving.

Your local affiliate shows might offer an opportunity for donations as small as $10 added to your show tab. This giving campaign, “There is Power in $10,” generates more than $25,000 each year for the RHF’s core programs. These funds are instrumental in fulfilling our mission of supplying relief for those in need during a crisis and to young equine enthusiasts attending trade school or college.

In reining, there is power in $10. It’s a nice cure for a rainy day.
